Asian Citrus Psyllid Quarantine Area

Don't Move Your Citrus

The shaded portion of the map below shows the portion of Southwest Yuma County, Arizona currently under quarantine for the Asian citrus psyllid. This quarantine prohibits the movement of any live citrus plant material and other host plants (See our website for more hosts) being moved to outside the quarantine area. Contact the Arizona Department of Agriculture if you suspect that citrus plants are being improperly moved from the quarantine area. Thank you. Please visit our website for more information on this pest: http://www.azda.gov/psd/acp.htm

Help stop the spread of this dangerous plant pest by not moving your new citrus tree outside of the ACP Quarantine Area. Please check that your new citrus tree has an attached quarantine tag prior to purchase. For more information on this pest and restrictions please visit: www.azda.gov/psd/acp.htm
